

Washington, DC- Congressman Steve King released the following statement after voting to repeal ObamaCare on the House floor today:

"After the Supreme Court's disappointing ruling last week I voted again for 100 percent repeal of ObamaCare today," said King. "There is no end to how government can control our lives if ObamaCare remains the law of the land. This unjust law will not improve healthcare and it will only make costs soar. The President's 'solution' brings about more problems than it solves.

We must pull this law out by the roots so that our debt can be reigned in, businesses can have assurance about the future and families can afford their health insurance. If Senate Democrats and the President continue to defend their unpopular law, the American people will have the chance to vote for the repeal of ObamaCare in November."

To view Congressman King's Editorial "Government's authority to coerce will not end with ObamaCare" originally printed in the Des Moines Register today, click here.